Investigating the relationship between payment incentive measures in managed care contracts and actu

Project Title	Investigating the relationship between payment incentive measures in managed care contracts and actu
Project Summary	The intern will use existing data and qualitative information on states to analyze whether there are opportunities for improving the quality of care delivered to Medicaid beneficiaries through managed care based on how states and their managed care plans perform on certain HEDIS measures.
Country	United States

Project Description

The intern will conduct comparative analysis to determine whether there are associations between plan performance on HEDIS measures and the state's incentive payment structures. The intern will use managed care contracts, External Quality Reports, and internal conversations with state managed care leads (the people who actually review contracts) to conduct the analysis and draw conclusions about opportunities to optimize pay for performance use.
